Mr. Mallory, of Florida, offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Resolutions?

"Resolved, That this Convention hereby approves and inderses the principles of tariff reform enunciated by President Cleveland in his first message to the present Congress, and to the policy recommended by him for the practical application of those principles to the administration of Government, we give our unqualified and universal support."

The mention of Cleveland's name was the signal for a round of applause, which again broke out as the reading of the resolution was completed.

Mr. Webb, of Alabama, Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, submitted the report of that Committee cn the Dakota contested case. The committee finds in favor of W. F. Steele and G. C. Maguire, of the Church faction. The committee also finds in favor of admitting Messrs. Dulancy and Garnett as delegates from Alaska. The report was agreed to.

The Chairman then called for reports from the Committee on Organization, and Mr. Cassidy, of Pennsylvania, its Chairman, reported that it had ununimously agreed upon General Patrick A. Collins, of Massachuseits, for permanent Chairman. The announcement was received with loud applause and cheers. H. H. Day, of Missouri, a committee to escort the permanent chairman of the convention to the stage. The announcement of each of these names was the signal for a burst of hearty applause. Barnum's name was received with special warmth, and cries of "Barnum" were mingled with the general shouts. Just as the committee was proceeding to the place where Mr. Collins sat, in the Massachusetts delegation, two pages appeared bearing two large floral shields, which had been sent to the convention, to be presented at its permanent organization, with the compliments of Hon. David R. Francis, mayor of the city of St. Louis. As these testimonials were borne to the platform, Mr. Collins, arm in arm with Mr. Barnum and Mr. Flowers, marched down the south aisles, and his appearance was greeted with a storm of cheers, which grew in volume as he mounted the steps of the platform, and stood by the side of Chairman White, who grasped his hand and waited for the applause to die out. When something like quiet had been restored Chairman White said:

"Thanking you for the favors you have extended to me, and your indugence accorded me so far in the proceedings of this great convention, I take pleasure in introducing to you your permanent presiding officer, Hon. Patrick A. Collins of Massachusetts."

Mr. Wiste then passed over to Mr. Collins the sliver gavel presented by the Colorado delegation and retired. There was another burst of applause, and when it had subsided Mr. Collins began speaking.

General Collins warmiy and at length eulogized the Administration of President Cleveland as having triumphantly justified his election. The Democracy now stood on the edge of another and perhaps greater contest, with a relation to the electors not held before for a generat on—that of responsibility for the great trust of Government, no longer critics, but criticised. They were confronted by a willy unscrupulous and desperate foe. There would be no blot on the record that would not be magnified into a blot, no circumstances not tortured and misrepresented, no disappointment not exaggerated into a revolt, no class or creed it would not be sought to inflame, no passion not attempted to rouse, no fraud that would not be willingly perpetrated.

But the appeal of the Democratic party is not to passion or to prejudice, to class or faction or race or creed, but to the sound common sense, the interest, the intelligence and patriotism of the American people. Upon their matchless record for the last four years and upon their earnest efforts, as yet incomplete, to reduce and equalize the burdens of taxation, the Democratic enter the canvass. General Collins closed by appealing to the patriotic independent citizens, who four years ago forsock their old allegiance and who since that time have nobly sustained the Administration, to remember that it is a fatal error to weaken a political organization by which great reforms have been achieved, and risk them in the hands of their known adversaries. The Democratic temple is open to all; and if in council they could not agree in all things, their motto nevertheless was; "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Collins was again roundly and warmly greeted. The gentlemen selected to represent the various States as Vice-Presidents then proceeded to take seats upon the platform, while the band played an inspiring air.

The Chairman stated that he had been informed by the Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions that the committee would be unable to report before 8 o'clock this evening.

The chair announced that the secretary would read a petition for the consideration of the convention. The paper proved to be a request from the woman's convention, recently held in Washington, stating that two of its members had been appointed to make a short talk to the convention on behalf of the women of America. This request was accompanied by a promise that if it were granted by the convention, the representation of the woman's organization would only occupy the attention of the convention for ten minutes. The communication was signed by Virginia L, Miner and E. A. Merriweather. J. J. O'Donohue, of New York, moved that the women be heard, and it was agreed to.

T. J. Campbell, of New York, then offered the following resolution which was read and referred to the Committee on Resolutions:

"Resolved, That this Convention takes consion to express its unfeigned sorrow at the serious and dangerous illness of General Phil. H. Sheridan. [Applause.] And to him whose noble and valiant deeds will ever be enthroned in the hearts of his countrymen, we extend our sincare sympathy. We earnestly trust that the great soldier and distinguished patriot will meet with a speedy recovery, and that the Divine Providence may spare him to this nation for many years to come. years to come.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to General Sheridan as expressive of the heartfelt sentiments of the Democracy of the United States." [Cheers.] The resolution was adopted by a rising vote, with three hearty cheers for the gallant soldier who is now engaged in his most desperate com-pany.

Resolutions were then offered for recess until eight o'clock this evening and until ten o'clock to-morrow, when Mr. Hensell, of Pennsylvania, moved that the roll of States and Territories be called, and the names of candidates for President and Vice-President be placed in nom-ination, but no ballot to be taken until after the Committee on Resolutions shall have re-ported. with victory, I nominate Grover Cieveland, of New York."

Mr. Dougherty's speech was delivered with fine effect in his best style, and aroused unbounded enthusiasm. When he mentioned the name of Cleveland or referred to his public acts and utterances the convention fairly shouted itself hoarse. The delegates mounted the chairs, waved their hats, their canes and handkerchiefs. The 10,000 spectators joined in the applause and the band in the east gallery helped along with horns and drums, but their blare and noise could scarcely be heard above the general din. As Mr. Dougherty finished his speech some one in the west gallery tore aside a curtain which had hid a portrait of Cleveland, upon the face of the great picture of the Capitol building, revealing to the full gaze of the convention the well-known features of the President. This incident aroused the enthusiasm of the convention to a fever heat for the first time during its proceedings. The hall was at once filled with cheer on cheer, and the great body of the people in the auditorium, talcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of its voice, until the din became almost dearching. Hats were thrown in the air, red bandanas waved from a thousand hands, and white, black and gray hats were frantically thrust upon the points of canes and waved until the owners became exhausted. Some one on the stage crowned the bust of the President on the left of the Chairman with a laurel wreath, which was the signal for even a wilder burst of shouts and cheers than before.

Mr. McKenzie, of Kentucky, then took the platform and seconded the nomination of Mr. Cleveland in a neat speech. Judge H. D. D. Twiggs, of Georgia, Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, and others also seconded the nomination.

On motion the rules were waspended and Grover Cleveland, of New York, was nominated as the Democratic nominace for President of the United States by acclamation.

On motion the Convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrew morning.

THIRD DAY.

Sr. LOUIS, June 7.—The Convention assembled this morning at 10:35, and after prayer by Rev. Dr. Brank, of the South Presbyterian Church, Hon. Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, submitted the report of the Committee on Resolutions, which were adopted by the Convention unanimously as follows:

The Platform The Democratic party of the United States, in National Convention assembled, zenews the pledge of the fidelity to Democratic faith, and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the convention of 1884, and indorses the views expressed by President Cleveland in his last annual message to Congress as the correct interpretation of that platform upon the question of tariff reduction, and also indorses the efforts of our Democratic representatives in Congress to secure a reduction of excessive taxation.

Chief among its principles of party faith are the maintenance of an indissoluble union of free and indestructible states now about to enter upon its second century of unexampled progress and renown; devotion to a plan of government, regulated by a written constitution stretly specifying every granted power and expressly reserving to the States or people the entire ungranted residue of power; the encouragement of a jealous popular vigilance, directed to all who have been chosen for brief terms to enact and execute the laws, and are charged with the duty of preserving peace, insuring equality and establishing justice. The Democratic party welcome an exacting scrutiny of the administration of the executive power, which four years ago was committed to its trust in the election of Grover Cleveland President of the United States, and it challenges the most searching inquiry concerning its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which then invited the suffrages of the people. During a most critical period of our financial atfairs, resulting from overtaxation, the anomalous condition of our currency and a public debt unmatured, it has, by the adoption of a disaster, but greatly promoted the prosperity of the people.

On the contrary, a fair and careful revision of our tax laws, with due allowance for the difference between the wages of American and foreign labor, must permit and encourage every branch of such industry and enterprise by giving them assurance of an extended market and steady and continuous operation in the interest of American labor, which should in no event be prefetched the revision of our tax laws concan labor, which should in he event be neglected, the revision of our tax laws contemplated by the Democratic party, and to promote the advantage of such labor, by cheapening the cost of the necessaries of life in the home of every workingman and at the same time securing to him steady and remunerative dorses and recommends the early passage of the bill for the reduction of the revenue now pending in the House of Representatives." The resolution was adopted amid loud ap-heritage of the American people. His name may be most fittingly coupled with that of our honored President, Grover Cleveland. Cleveland and Thurman will be a ticket absolutely resistless. It will sweep the country with a mighty rush, a tidal wave of approval. Against it all opposition will be fruitless. The approval of Cleveland's administration during the past four years, and indorsement of his actions, the simplicity yet remarkable ability with which he has administered his great trust under the most trying circumstances, coupled with the all-prevailing affection felt for the philosopher of Columbus, will make Cleveland and Thurman a war-cry to affright the political enemy. The enthusiasm which will be aroused upon its announcement will be infectious, and, gathering force and volume day by day, it will before November have become epidemic. That the name of Allen G-Thurman should be cheered to the echo in this hall is not strange, for it brings the warm blood of gratitude surging to the heart at every fireside, and the testimonials which the people will surely pay to his worth, at the coming November election, will be convincing proof of his popularity.

"Indiana honors Governor Gray by supportpularity.

"Indiana honors Governor Gray by suppo

ber election, will be convincing proof of his popularity.

"Indiana honors Governor Gray by supporting him for this nomination; Illinois is doing the same for General Black, Michigan for Mr. Dickerson, Wisconsin for Mr. Vilas—good men and true each and all of them; and, were it not for the self-sacrificing patriotism of Mr. Thurman in response to the almost unanimous wish of the party to permit his name to come before you, it were difficult indeed to choose between such meritorious and able gentlemen. Their names are fit to grace this or any other ticket. They are each the favorite sons of their respective States, but when Allen G. Thurman, the favorite son of each and every State in this Union, in answer to the universal demand for his acceptance, consents to leave the peace and tranquility of his fireside and again serve his grateful countrymen, so prominent, so colossal is his political and mental figure in the public eye that all others must, of necessity, shade in its immensity. Let no mistake be made at this time. Mistakes are crimes. If you but do your duty, if you but give the people what they expect, what they demand, the contest of parties, instead of just commencing, will be practically ended; for the great electoral and popular majorities, which Clevelani and Thurman will receive at the polis, will be a revelation even to ourselves. As representatives of the Democracy of the Nation we have a duty to perform. We must mominate the man the people have already nominated. We have but to indoise the popular verdict; no less will be accepted at your hands. Let no consideration of personal friendship or glamour of locality influence your action. Personal friendship can not be repaid by nomination where a great party's interest and future are at stake. No trifting with great concerns of State should be tolerated; no expressions of local pride can be admitted to influence action. When the sovereign people speak they must be obeyed. Brofid ground must be taken. The man of the nation, not the man of the State, nation, not the man of the State, must be nominated.

"Nominate Allen G. Thurman. Nominate him by acclamation. Let it not be said that one single Democrat in all this great Union fails in this testimonial to the greatest American of his day, the noblest breathing man upon American soil, fit consort in the temple of fame of those patriots of the past—the founders of our institutions, whose sacred dust lies calmly sleeping beneath the sods of Mt.Vernon, Monticello and the Hermitage awaiting the dedication of our national pantheon."

T. M. Patterson, of Colorado, nominated General Black. Mr. Patterson read a telegram from Black in which the latter withdraws in favor of Thurman. Mr. Patterson says he leaves Black's name with the convention to deal with as common sense and Democratic judgment dictates. [Great applause.]

Mr. Piggett seconded Thurman's nomination.

ngers Saved From Depredations b the Bravery of the Crew-Baggage Master Ketcham Fatally Wounded-Thrilling Hand-to-Hand Encounter in the Dark-The Robbers Get Nothing.

CINCINNATI, Jane 9 .- There was an at empt last night to rob a train at Delhi, in the style prevalent in Texas, "down by the Rio Grande." The boldness of the assault is exceeded only by the heroism of the defense by unarmed train hands. It was a bungling attempt and incomprehen-sible, in the light of present information, on any other ground than that the brig-ands were neophytes at the business of plunder and murder-for the train, an ac dianapolis, due here at 10:40, is a "poor train" from a booty standpoint. True, there was an express safe of whose contents the night have been better informed whose watches and valuables would have for the splendid resistance made, but in an attempt involving murder in the intent as shown, and hanging, if caught, experts would it seems likely have played for what thieves know as a Big Trick. The train left Indianapolis at 6 p.m., and is due here at 10:40. It was in charge of Conduc-tor William Leffler, with Jim Boyd at the throttle, Henry Fisher at the fires, John Stickle, brakeman; Joe Ketcham, baggagemaster; Henry J. Zimmerman, messenger of the American Express Co., and, as said, about forty passengers. There wa no incident to excite suspicion until the train was pulling out of Delhi, when Zim-merman said: "Joe, there is somebody at the front end of the car." Ketcham look ed up and saw through the glass end of the car, which is a combinat on express and baggage car, four faces-or rather four pair of eyes looking through black masques. The intruders at once began through firing through the glass, terwards entering. Ketcham ed his lamp and resisted desperately, but was soon shot down-one wound being in the back of the neck and two near the left Zimmerman escaped without in-He had at first started forward with Joe Ketcham to eject supposed tramps, but the robbers opening fire, and discharging at least fifteen shots, he at-tempted to pull his revolver. It caught in his pocket and he retreated to the rear of car, where he met the conductor entering. Captain Lefflier, who had heard the shots from the smoker, where he was sitting, at once pulled the bell-cord to stop the train. At that moment, however, the engineer, his only weapon a "monkey wrench," and his fireman were engaged in a hand-to-hand struggle with three rob One of these had jumped upon the engine, gun in hand, as the train moved out, and two climbed to his aid over the coal box, when they found the stuff that Boyd and Fisher were made of and that their pal was getting the worst of the fight. They were either thrown or jumped from the engine as it neared Trautman's. The passengers were by this time in a terrible state of excitement, but all of the robbers seemed to have made good their escape to the woods and the train came to this city. The police were notified and a large posse en sent in pursuit of the robbers. Ketcham's wounds are thought to be fatal. The audacity of the thing is more astounding, as later information shows, that the "run" from an express standpoint was not worth $1,000, including the railway's money, which was in checks.

son, Ky., twelve miles below here, at on c'clock this morning, James Foster, color ed, was taken from jail and bauged. Foster was arrested Thursday morning at the instance of John Howard, charged with outraging the latter's little eight-year-old daughter, a few miles from Henderson, in the country. Foster, on being arcested strenuously denied his guilt, but most conclusive evidence of his guilt was foun on his clothing, which was stained with blood. The greatest indignation was created throughout the neighborhood, and threats of lynching were heard on all sides. A mob came in from the country last night, but they found Jailor Johnson on the alert, and they returned to their homes determined to come back and avenge the brutal crime. As the quiet little city was asleep at midnight two hundred Kentuckians, mounted on horseback and armed to rode into the city. Pulling up at the jail, they made a dash for the barred doors and before the jailor was fully alarmed they were inside. Breaking alarmed they were inside. than is known at present writing, and down the cell door, they dragge some forty passengers of the better class, street, and putting him into a vehi cle started with him for the scene of him crime before the town was aware of th intrusion. All along the road the prisoner be ged and beseeched his captors to spare his life, and told all manner of sto ries to prove his innocence. But Ken-tuckians have learned to turn deaf ears to the pleas of those who so cruelly wrech and stain the fair name of their State, and when the party had arrived at the woods where the outrage was committed they selected a strong oak, threw the fatal rope over a l mb and strung the wretch up Then they quietly dispersed.

Horrible Tragedy in Iowa.

WATERLOO, IA., June 10 .- Word has just been received here of a terrible tragedy which occurred in Hazelgreen Township seventeen miles from Monticelli, last Mon day. An old man named Rothbacker, who was working in a stone quarry, undertook to whip his boy, a lad of twelve, but was prevented by a fellow-workman. In the evening the old man again tried to whip the boy. When he attempted to run the father gave chase, and having captured him knocked him down and cut his he off with an axe. Up to last night the old man was still at large. An attempt will be made to lynch him when captured.

House bill authorizing the President to appoint and retire Alfred Pieasonton with the rank and grade of Colonel, with an amendment reducing the grade to that of Major. WASHINGTON, June 4.—SENATE.—The Senate the grade to that of Major.

HOUSE—The House to-day passed the bill to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river in the counties of Mononta, Ia., and Burt, Neb. Mr. Mills moved that the rules be suspended and evening sessions ordered for the consideration of certain bills, but as he would not consent to an amendment setting apart certain sessions for the consideration. ting apart certain sessions for the considera-tion of pension bills the Republicans refused to vote. As no quorum could be secured, Mr. Mills withdrew his resolution. He then moved that debate on the pending paragraph in the tariff bill be limited to ten minutes. Mr. Mills notion was put. The slate showed no quorum and the nays and yeas resulted in the same way so a call of the House was ordered. Members to the number of 222 having responded, Mr. Mills withdrew his motion to limit the debate, and simply asked that the House go into committee of the whole on the tariff bill. But the Republicans, hoping to make an opportunity for the pension bill, persisted in their refusal to vote, and another roll-call was ordered on the motion to go into committee. On this vote 111 Democrats responded. No quorum, and Mr Mills moved to adjourn, which prevailed, and the House adjourned.

tine business the Senate proceeded to consideration of the diplomatic and consular appro priation bill. Several amendments were ported by the Committee on Appropriations and agreed to. An amendment to increase the sal ary of the Minister Resident and Consul Gen eral to Paraguay and Uruguay from $5,000 to $7,500 was debated at much length. Finally the amendment was excluded on a point of order, and Mr. Call appealed from that decision.

DINING IN AFRICA

Toothsome Viands Relished by the Epi

An anonymous traveler, who pro fesses to have been almost everywhere, has recently been publishing his experiences of the best (and worst) the narket affords in various parts of Africa. As that dry and dusty continent is rapidly becoming a place of fashionable resort, perhaps some of our readers may be thinking of 'doing" it, and if so they would, perhaps, be glad to know "what to eat, and what to avoid," among the articles of Africa's bill of fare.

In making a selection from nature's livestock in that region, hippopotamus may be safely patronized by persons curious in their eating, but elephant is to be deprecated and eschewed. A slice of hippo, we are told, "tastes like a mean proportion between boiled beef and boiled pork." "Mean proportion" is a good expression, and no doub rery accurate. Elephant, one would think, could hardly differ much from river-horse in fiber or flavor; but it does. The former, even if you get the porter-house cut, is rather tougher than india-rubber; the latter tender and fat as prize beef.

Eland steak is so delicious that our traveler is moved to recommend the immediate domestication of the animal in Christian countries. Giraffe sirloin is rare eating, but as the animal is somewhat scarce, the African tourist must not expect to dine on it more than once a week, at most. Above all things, we advise him to abstain from ostrich. It is said that a strong-toothed Kaffir, who can make a meal off sole leather and wire, shakes his head hope lessly at the idea of masticating a bit of ostrich gobbler.

Zebra is pronounced to be as good as veal, and porcupine equal to hare, and our authority is quite eloquent on the subject of locusts, which he declares to be very like the famous Thames fish, the whitebait. John the Baptist, therefore, was not so badly off in the wilderness, with his locust and fresh honey. The African lizards are also reported palatable; but the king dish of South Africa is the bustard-when you get it, which is seldom.

Upon the whole, South and Central Africa are by no means overstocked with edible delicacies, and the tasteful epicure is advised to think twice before he leaves a land of turtle soup, canvasback ducks twenty-four-pound turkeys, saddle-back oysters and plum-puddings for the sunny region where they eat lion, elephant, ostrich, camelopard, porcupine, lizard and such "small deer."-N. Y. Ledger.

Roman Type in Germany.

Roman type and script are making their way slowly but surely in Ger-The society for the abolition of the old German letters, which, in 1866, numbered only 2,871 members, now has 3,336 on its list, which includes teachers, physicians, booksellers and merchants. In the last year thirty-one professors joined the league-a notable fact, in 1886, according to Hinrich's "Bibliography," out of 6,316 books on artistic, scientific, mercantile and industrial subjects 5.316 were printed in roman type. As is well known, Bismarck has set his face most stubbornly against this reformation, which will, when fully accomplished, be for Germany, as well as for the rest of the world, a real blessing, inasmuch as their barbarous system of type and script has, as it was, shut the world out of their domain of letters.-Inland Printer.

-"Ya-as," said a discouraged-looking denizen of a small New Jersey town, "that Smith family has what I call a dead open-and-shut monopoly in this here community.' "How is that?" he was asked. "Well, Ebenezer Smith, he's the real estate agent down there where you see the sign 'No Malaria;' and Eliphalet Smith, he's the undertaker, at the corner end of the street; and between 'em both, they manage to scoop in both ends of the business done in that place." -Puck.

- "How much will one of these turkeys cost in a sack suit?" "I'm too busy to joke, young man." "Where's the joke? That card in the window says: Full-dressed turkeys twenty cents a pound.'."

-A young man of Keokuk, Ia., won a wager by eating thirty-six bananas at one sitting. It was a remarkable feat. Many a young man has slipped up on less than one banana. - Norristown Herald.

A Twenty Years' Experience

770 Broadway, New York, March 17, 1886.

I have been using Allcock's Ponous Plasters for 20 years, and found them one of the best of family medicines. Briefly summing up my experience, I say that when placed on the small of the back Allcock's Plasters fill the body with nervous property and thus ours fatigme, brain excoer's Plasters fill the body with nervous energy, and thus cure fatigue, brain exhaustion, debility and kidney difficulties. For women and children I have found them invaluable. They never irritate the skin or cause the slightest pain, but cure sore throat, croupy coughs, colds, pain in the side, back or chest, indigestion or bowel complaints.
